Small Grant Opportunities for ~~Residential~~ Providers of Services and Supports for People with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities

Items to increase social integration, anxiety reduction

Background & Purpose:

COVID-19 is a disease caused by a respiratory virus first identified in Wuhan, Hubei Province, China in December 2019. COVID-19 is a new virus that hasn't caused illness in humans before. Worldwide, COVID-19 has resulted in thousands of infections, causing widespread illness.

The COVID-19 pandemic is creating unprecedented responses by federal, state, and local governments that impact the lives of all Marylanders, including people with developmental disabilities and their families. Specifically, the pandemic has resulted in statewide requirements to engage in social distancing, self-isolation, and quarantine. As a result, many providers closed day programs, instituted shelter in place rules, and took other actions necessary to protect the health and safety of the people with developmental disabilities. As a result, more people will be isolated, away from friends and family, and many interactions people normally engage in have or will cease.

These changes are very difficult for many people to understand. Having a change in a long-standing routine, limits on preferred activities, social isolation from friends and loved ones, and increased restrictions of movement are major sources of anxiety for many and particularly for people who have difficulty understanding the rationale behind the changes. Certain activities can promote socialization, lessen feelings of isolation, and help pass the time. Relaxation aids such as aromatherapy, tactile and proprioceptive aids such as vibrating items and weighted blankets, visual items such as books, movies and video games, auditory items such as musical instruments; all help to maintain and promote socialization and alleviate stress and anxiety.

The Arc Maryland is now accepting applications for a Small Grant Opportunity: Engagement and Comfort during the COVID-19 Pandemic. This opportunity is possible with funds provided by the Maryland Developmental Disabilities Council and is open to community-based organizations that provide supports to people with developmental disabilities who have been affected by the statewide Coronavirus response.

Ultimately, this initiative seeks to identify effective strategies that people with developmental disabilities, families, and provider agencies can institute to ensure people continue to engage with peers during this period of social distancing and isolation. Funds are available to meet the needs of people with developmental disabilities and their families during this pandemic.

In the capacity of a grant reviewer/small grant administrator of this Small Grant Opportunity, The Arc Maryland is tasked with soliciting, reviewing, and awarding applications to community-based organizations interested in purchasing items, such as those listed above, to be used by people with disabilities during the Coronavirus pandemic.

Items considered for funding through the Small Grant Opportunity include but are not limited to:

- Activities to remain engaged during social distancing, such as, but not limited to, board games, game consoles, word-search books, art supplies, and puzzles;
- Items that alleviate anxiety due to social distancing, such as vibrating items, bean bag chairs, weighted blankets, aroma-therapy items, tactile stimulation, and other sensory-need items; and,
- Other items needed for people experiencing social isolation

Items may be purchased for single recipients or for use by more than one individual and are intended to promote increased socialization, anxiety-reduction, and increase positive shared experiences. Grants shall be awarded for proposals of $500 to $2,500 as approved for funding by The Arc Maryland's Grant Committee, in consultation with the Maryland Developmental Disabilities Council.

The Arc Maryland and the Maryland Developmental Disabilities Council will host an information conference call on Wednesday, March 18 at 9:00am to answer questions from interested applicants about the Provider Small Grants Program, use of funds, the expedited application process, expedited reimbursement process and more. If you would like to participate in the call, please contact Luc Chausse at lchausse@thearcmd.org

If you are unable to reach Mr. Chausse, please call (443) 851-9351 and leave a message with your name, organization, spelling of your email address and phone number.

The Arc Maryland, through its solicitation attempts, shall endeavor to secure state-wide impact of the fund, and shall make awards throughout the state (Eastern, Southern, Central and Western regions).
