SUMMARY

People on the Go Maryland (POG) is a statewide self-advocacy group led by people with developmental disabilities. With support from the Council and the Maryland Center for Developmental Disabilities (MCDD), POG works to improve issues that affect people with developmental disabilities. This includes increasing the knowledge and skills of people with developmental disabilities to be advocates on issues that matter to them. POG educates and advocates for change with state agencies, the state legislature, and the community. POG is also working to become an independent nonprofit organization.
